CALL TO DISCIPLES

Our collection of stained glass windows representing the call to disciples or discipleship capture the unique bond of devotion as well as conflict experienced by members of the Twelve. Our images reflect how the disciples came to depend upon God for everything, moment by moment. Asked to leave their loved ones and all earthly possessions behind, Jesus bathed His disciples in a light that recognized the needs of the poor, the hungry, the sick, and the hopeless as the focal point of His ministry.

THE STORY OF THE CALL TO DISCIPLES

The call to disciples or discipleship is a major aspect of the ministry of Jesus. The Gospel of Mark 1:16-20 records how Jesus called Simon (Peter), Andrew (brother of Simon), James (son of Zebedee), and John (his brother) away from their tasks as fisherman on the shores of the Sea of Galilee to come and follow Him. The remaining eight disciples were appointed while Jesus was visiting Capernaum and include Philip and Bartholomew; Thomas and Matthew; James (son of Alphaeus), Thaddaeus, Simon the Zealot, and Judas Iscariot.

The disciples that Jesus chose were, for the most part, average men of their day. A list of the occupational backgrounds from which they emerged includes commercial fishermen, tax collector, and mercenary/insurgent. As Jesus pursues His ministry, the twelve disciples travel with Him, live with Him, eat with Him, receive instruction from Him, heal the sick, and cast out demons.
